JOHN WINN McENERY

Major General, USA

John W. McEnery was born at the Presidio of San Francisco on 30 December 1925. He grew up in the Army, spending most of these years at Fort Warren, Wyoming, and the Presidio of Monterey, California. He entered the US Military Academy from his father's home state of Louisiana in 1944. At the Military Academy his sport was lacrosse; he was named All American twice and captained the Army team.

He graduated from USMA on 8 June 1948 a second lieutenant of cavalry. He went immediately to the Ground General School at Fort Riley along with other newly commissioned Regular Army officers, and then to the Armor Officers Basic Course at Fort Knox.

In August 1949, he reported to his first unit as a platoon leader—Tank Company 1st Battalion, 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment, at Fritzlar, Germany. He served for three years in the 1st Battalion, including assignments as tank platoon leader, reconnaissance company executive officer, and assistant S3 (operations officer).

Returning to Fort Knox in October 1952, he served as battalion S3 and tank company commander in the 761st Tank Battalion of the 3d Armored Division. The following year he attended the Armor Officers Advanced Course at the Armor School.

He was next selected to study Spanish for a year in Spain. From the fall of 1955 until the summer of 1958 he taught Spanish at the Military Academy—lirst as an instructor and then as an assistant professor.

He attended the Command and General Staff College. Upon graduation in 1959, he served as a tank company commander in the 2d Battalion, 40th Armor, and S3 of the 2d Recon Squadron, 10th Cavalry, both part of the 7th Infantry Division in Korea.

His next assignment was in the G1 office at HQ, Second US Army, at Fort Meade, Maryland, where he served as a member of the Manpower Survey Team of that headquarters until June 1962 when he was transferred to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations (DC-SOPS) at Headquarters, Department of the Army. Following a year in the Combat Developments Directorate there, he was assigned to the Office of the Chief of Staff of the Army where he served two years.

He was selected to attend the Spanish Army Staff College in Madrid, Spain, starting in September 1965. Following graduation in June 1966, he served for a year in the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Madrid as Chief of the Materiel and Program Branch of the Army Section.

In 1968 he attended the Air War College at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama. Here he was named a Distinguished Graduate and earned a Master of Science Degree in International Affairs from George Washington University.

Next, he commanded the 3d Squadron, 11th Armored Cavalry in the Republic of Vietnam from July 1968 to June 1969.

Returning to CONUS he was assigned as the Secretary of the General Staff at HQ, CONARC at Fort Monroe, Virginia for nine months, during which period he was selected to attend the senior officers' aviator program starting in May 1970. He graduated from the course at Fort Rucker in December 1970.

On 30 December 1970 he assumed command of the 2d Brigade, 1st Armored Division at Fort Hood. On 5 May 1971 this brigade became the 2d Brigade (Air Cavalry Combat Brigade) of the 1st Cavalry Division (TR1CAP).

On 30 June 1972 Colonel McEnery relinquished command of the Air Cavalry Combat Brigade and on 1 July was promoted to brigadier general (effective 22 June) and assumed his duties as Assistant Division Commander of the 1st Cavalry Division.

He became Deputy Director (Operations and Administration) for the Defense Nuclear Agency on 12 November 1973.

On 5 August 1974 he assumed command of the 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile) and Fort Campbell, Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

On 26 February 1976, General McEnery assumed his present position as Commander, US Army Armor Center and Fort Knox.

CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATE

You arrived at Fort Knox eight weeks ago as a civilian and now you are a soldier. This is a memorable accomplishment of which you can be proud. It is hoped that this book, in the years ahead, will be a pleasant reminder of the contributions you have made in preparation for the defense of your country and of your initial introduction to the United States Army.

You have received the finest training possible in all military subjects. I encourage you to make full use of the skills, knowledge and confidence that you have developed. As a soldier walk with pride and perform your mission in the most exemplary manner. You are responsible for upholding the long, distinguished reputation and tradition of the United States Army.

On this siginificant occasion, your graduation from Basic Combat Training, I extend my congratulations and wish you continuing success in the future.

JOHN W. MCENERY Major General, USA

Commanding

DAVID KYTE DOYLE

Brigadier General, USA

Brigadier General David K. Doyle was born in Pottsville, Pennsylvania on 8 December 1931. He joined the US Army from Wilmington, Delaware on 12 February 1951 as an enlisted man. After completing Airborne School, he joined the 508th Airborne Infantry Regimental Combat Team at Fort Benning, Georgia where he rose to the rank of Sergeant. After a short tour with the Regiment, he entered Officer Candidate School at Fort Knox, Kentucky and in July 1952 was graduated as a Second Lieutenant of Armor.

Remaining at Fort Knox with the 3d Armored Division, he served as a Training Officer in an Advanced Individual Training Company. After a year with a training command, he was assigned to the 510th Tank Battalion in Europe, serving as both Reconnaissance and Tank Platoon Leader, Company Executive Officer, Battalion Intelligence Officer and Assistant Operations Officer.

He returned to the United States in 1956 and was assigned to the 714th Tank Battalion at Fort Benning, Georgia. After helping the Battalion organize and train for European duty, he was reassigned first to Tank Company, 29th Infantry Regiment, and subsequently to the 3d Infantry Division. The latter was designated to participate in Operation Gyroscope in 1957 and deployed to West Germany in 1958. While in Europe, he commanded Companies B and E of the 1st Battalion, 68th Armor and later served on the Division Staff as the Assistant G3 Plans Officer.

He returned to Fort Knox, Kentucky in 1961 and served a few months with the 1st Brigade of the Armor Training Center as the Committee Group Chief. From there, he went to the Armor School to attend the Advanced Course. After graduation, he remained with the Command and Staff Department of the School where he served first as an instructor in Nuclear Weapons Employment and Staff Operations followed by assignment as Chief of Small Armor Tactics. In 1965, he was selected for the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

After graduation in June 1966, he was next assigned to the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment at Fort Meade, Maryland. From then until September 1967, he served as the Operations Officer of the 3d Squadron, first helping to finalize training and preparation for overseas movement, secondly deploying the Squadron to South Vietnam, and finally serving with the Squadron throughout the 11I Corps area.

After returning to the United States, he was assigned to the Officer Personnel Directorate in Washington, D.C., where he served both as a War Plans Officer and Personnel Management Officer. In May 1969, he returned to the III Corps area of South Vietnam and the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment to command the 3d Squadron. In late December, he was next assigned to 1 Corps as the Senior Advisor to the Dong Da National Training Center.

Returning to the United States in June 1970, he was assigned to the Pentagon to serve as an Assistant Secretary of the General Staff in the Office of the Chief of Staff of the Army. After a year in this position, he was selected to attend the National War College. Upon graduation in June 1972, he returned to the Office of the Chief of Staff where he served the next year as the Chief of Staff Management Division.

In July 1973, he was selected to command the 3d Armored Cavalry Regiment at Fort Bliss, Texas. Upon completion of the command tour in February 1975, he returned once again to the Pentagon to serve as the Deputy to the Director of the Army Staff in the Office of the Chief of Staff.

In March 1976, he was assigned to his present position of Deputy Commanding General, United States Army Armor Center and Fort Knox, Fort Knox, Kentucky.

History of United States Army Training Center, Armor

The history of the United States Army Training Center, Armor (USATCA), dates back to 1940, when Europe was overrun by Nazism and the United States initiated its first peacetime draft in history. The Training Center had three names in that first year. It was entitled the Armored Force School and Replacement Center on 1 October 1940, and changed to the Armored Force Replacement Center 25 days later. In April, 1941, the title became the Armored Force Replacement Training Center.

The Armored Force Replacement Training Center grew considerably in size and function during World War II, with the title being changed again in 1943 to the Armor Replacement Training Center. After the war, when the United States demobilized portions of its huge wartime forces, the Armor Replacement Training Center was placed on an inactive status. This occurred in July of 1947 when the Third Armored Division was reactivated at Fort Knox and assumed the training mission of the Armor Replacement Training Center.

In 1955, the Third Armored Division was ordered to "combat ready" status for eventual shipment to Europe. This brought the Armor Replacement Training Center back to active status in March of that year to carry on the training functions. The name of the Training Center was changed to its present title in March of 1956.

As of 1 January 1976, approximately one and one-half million trainees had completed one or more training programs in the Training Center since its inception.

The Training Center is organized into two training brigades, Committee Group, the US Army Reception Station and the Fort Knox Noncommissioned Officer Academy, and Drill Sergeant School. The First Training Brigade conducts Basic Armor Training (BAT) for Armor crewmen and Basic Reconnaissance Training (BRT) for Armor reconnaissance specialists under the One Station Unit Training (OSUT) concept. Additionally, the First Brigade conducts Advanced training for Armored Engineers and add-on qualification for soldiers assigned to Armor units equipped with vehicles other than the M60A1 tank. The Fourth Training Brigade conducts Basic Combat Training (BCT) for soldiers who enlist for military occupational specialties (MOS's) in fields other than Armor. The Committee Group conducts approximately 50% of the training in basic soldier skills for both OSUT and BCT units, with the remainder being taught by the training unit cadre.

The Training Center has the capability to conduct training for approximately 8,500 men at any one time. Its permanent party authorized strength, including officers and enlisted is about 2,500. Currently, approximately 50,000 trainees graduate from the various training center programs each year.
